

Know exactly where your AI investment will pay off. Before you spend.

Redesign work for the age of AI.

Employee led workshop that shows your organisation exactly where time really goes and gives every person a personal plan to eliminate low value work, automate the repeatable, and reclaim their workday to focus on value added activity.

The problem every leader is facing right now

Leaders are under pressure to redesign work for AI, cut costs, and lift productivity, but most organisations don't actually know where to unlock value. Job descriptions are stale. Surveys are slow. Restructures create role overload, duplicated effort, and invisible work nobody ever wrote down. The result is burnout, disengagement, and AI investment decisions made on guesswork instead of evidence.

THE APPROACH

Your people redesign their own roles

Role Declutter puts employees at the centre of the redesign, not the object of it. In a facilitated workshop, every participant maps what they actually do against real occupational benchmark data, sees exactly where their week goes, including the invisible work nobody counted, and personally decides what to keep, cut, automate or hand off.

No blame, no shame. The system created the overload; people get to fix what the system produced.

WHAT LEADERSHIP WALKS AWAY WITH

Evidence, not opinion

A defensible, data grounded picture of where time and effort really go across a team

A tiered automation opportunity map, quick wins through to complex AI initiatives, prioritised by impact and risk

A concrete redesign plan for every role, written by the people who do the work

Renewed energy. Employees leave with hours reclaimed and a say in how they got there

The Eliminate / Automate / Donate / Activate framework

Eliminate

Stop doing it. No replacement, it just goes away

Automate

Hand it to a tool or system; keep only the judgment that matters.

Donate

Hand it to a better placed person, role or team.

Activate

Keep it, and invest more, the highest value, most energising work.

How it works

ONE AND A HALF DAY FACILITATED WORKSHOP

A high energy, deeply engaging experience that shifts people from a mindset of scarcity to one of abundance. Participants learn how AI can remove friction rather than add pressure, lowering the psychological and practical barriers to adoption and opening up new capacity, confidence and growth for the business.

ROLE DECLUTTER™ IN ACTION

Each person quietly maps their real task load the visible work, the invisible work, and the work they never get time for against benchmark data. This gives a true, evidence based picture of where time is actually going, where AI can create meaningful uplift and where meaningful productivity gains can be created.

TWO POWERFUL OUTPUTS

Every participant leaves with a personalised Declutter Plan that immediately lifts productivity and clarity. Leaders receive an aggregated team and organisational report that highlights patterns, hotspots and opportunities, providing a clear roadmap for targeted AI investment and capability building.

See it in action

Book a 30 minute discovery call to explore Role Declutter™ for your organisation, or email hello@simplifyco.com.au.